Workshops

The workshops were designed as a practical extension of the project, transforming insights and identified needs into concrete learning experiences for young people and youth workers. Workshops focus on action providing structured activities that build skills, confidence, and understanding of AI in a youth work context. They respond directly to the gaps identified across countries, particularly the need for hands-on, accessible, and ethically grounded training. By combining non-formal education methods with digital tools, the workshops create engaging environments where participants can explore, experiment, and learn by doing.

Each workshop follows a clear structure, including objectives, step-by-step methodology, and expected outcomes, ensuring consistency while allowing flexibility for different groups and contexts. The topics cover a wide range of areas such as digital safety, creativity, career development, inclusion, wellbeing, and climate action. Through interactive elements like group work, simulations, and reflection activities, participants are encouraged to apply AI tools to real-life challenges. The workshops also emphasize critical thinking, ethical awareness, and collaboration, ensuring that technology is used responsibly. Overall, they provide practical guidance and inspiration for integrating AI into youth work in a meaningful and impactful way.
